Thomas William Hiddleston was born in Westminster, London, to English-born Diana Patricia (Servaes) and Scottish-born James Norman Hiddleston. His mother is a former stage manager, and his father, a scientist, was the managing director of a pharmaceutical company. He started off at the preparatory school, The Dragon School in Oxford, and by the time he was 13, he boarded at Eton College, at the same time that his parents were going through a divorce. He continued on to the University of Cambridge, where he earned a double first in Classics. He continued to study acting at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, from which he graduated in 2005. Whilst at University of Cambridge, he was seen by the agency 'Hamilton Hodel' in the play "A Streetcar Named Desire" and was signed. Following this, he was cast in his first television role in The Life and Adventures of Nicholas Nickleby \(2001\). Hiddleston won his first film role as Oakley in Joanna Hogg's award-winning first feature, Unrelated \(2007\). His breakthrough role came when he portrayed the nemesis Loki in the Marvel Cinematic Universe feature film Thor \(2011\). He reprised the character in The Avengers \(2012\), Thor: The Dark World...
